The SDRCC announces the appointment of its new arbitrators and mediators

Laval, (Quebec) - The Sport Dispute Resolution Centre of Canada (SDRCC) is proud to announce that following a call for applications in the summer of 2006, new arbitrators and mediators have been selected and have joined the SDRCC's team of neutrals.

Our team, which is comprised of mediation and arbitration experts, is available to assist you at all times. The list of our new members and their contact information can be found on our Web site at http://www.adrsportred.ca/tribunal/tribunal_e.cfm

In January 2007, as part of our effort to continuously improve the services we offer the sport community, the SDRCC provided comprehensive conflict resolution training to all of these new members. The training program focused primarily on expanding participants' knowledge of Canadian sport issues and those associated with anti-doping regulations.

The SDRCC was established in March 2003, under the Physical Activity and Sport Act to ensure the fair, equitable, transparent and timely resolution of disputes in Canadian sport and to offer expertise regarding alternative dispute resolution.

For additional information on the SDRCC and its activities, please contact Benoit Girardin at (450) 686-1245 or toll-free at 1-866-733-7767.
