Government of Canada Launches Recruitment Process for SDRCC Board of Directors

Brossard (Quebec) - The Sport Dispute Resolution Centre of Canada (SDRCC) is encouraging qualified individuals from across the Canadian sport community to consider serving on its Board of Directors as part of a Government of Canada recruitment process currently underway.

As Canada's leader in sport dispute resolution and conflict management services, the SDRCC plays an important role in fostering a fair, safe and accountable sport environment. Through strategic oversight and leadership, the Board of Directors helps guide the organization's work in support of athletes, sport organizations and participants across the country.

Opportunities on the SDRCC Board of Directors include positions for directors-at-large and a representative from a National Sport Organization. Individuals with expertise in law or dispute resolution, as well as current National Sport Organization board members and administrators, are encouraged to review the opportunity details and eligibility requirements published by the Government of Canada.

The SDRCC plays a unique role within the Canadian sport system by providing dispute resolution, conflict management, and dispute prevention services. Through the leadership and oversight of its Board of Directors, the organization supports a fair, safe, and accountable sport environment across Canada.

"The SDRCC benefits from the experience, insight and leadership of dedicated Board members who help guide our organization and support its mandate in service of the Canadian sport community," said Francis Ménard, Chief Executive Officer of the SDRCC. "Serving on the Board is an opportunity to contribute meaningfully to the continued evolution of Canada's sport system and to help advance fairness, accountability and effective dispute resolution in sport."

Interested candidates can review the position requirements and application process on the Government of Canada website.

Quick Facts

- The SDRCC Board of Directors is composed of 12 members and is responsible for providing strategic oversight and direction to the organization.
- Board appointments are made by the Minister responsible for the Physical Activity and Sport Act through an independent Government of Canada appointment process.
- Directors serve terms of up to three years and may be eligible for reappointment.

About the SDRCC

The SDRCC is a not-for-profit corporation created by federal legislation and funded by Sport Canada. Its mission is to provide the sport community with a national alternative dispute resolution service and to strengthen the culture of fairness in Canadian sport by resolving disputes quickly and efficiently, and by providing expertise and assistance in this area.
